1.0 EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

We are pleased to submit this proposal to provide redevelopment counsel services to the Jersey City Redevelopment Agency (hereinafter the "Redevelopment Agency"), which will include ongoing legal advice and legal representation in litigation when necessary.

Great success is often accompanied by a significant amount of redevelopment with a variety of parties, including, but not limited to business entities and individuals. To handle these matters, the Redevelopment Agency understands the need to procure the services of a high-quality, full-service law firm with tried and tested redevelopment/land use attorneys that understand the ins-and-outs of corporate America's boardrooms, the intricacies and complexities of the construction site, and the sensibilities and pragmatism of "Main Street" business owners and residents. Schenck, Price, Smith & King, LLP (hereinafter referred to as "Schenck Price" or the "Firm") is the best firm for that job.

Schenck Price is a proud New Jersey limited liability partnership and full-service law firm conveniently located at 200 Park Avenue, Florham Park, New Jersey 07932. Founded 107 years ago as the firm of King & Vogt, a two (2) person law firm in Morristown, Schenck Price has grown exponentially to approximately eighty (80) attorneys, all of whom pride themselves on superior client service and quality workmanship. Although we have experienced significant growth, we have been careful to never lose our small-firm charm. Schenck Price offers its clients a rare combination of comfortable size and a broad range of high-quality services that afford unique benefits to our clients.

Schenck Price provides high-quality legal services in numerous areas of law. The Firm has a long history of legal excellence in the areas of commercial litigation, labor and employment law, corporate governance, redevelopment, health care, education, construction, trust and estate planning, corporate law, real estate, insurance defense, banking, telecommunications, technology and environmental law.

This diversity of practice has also led to a diversity of clientele. Schenck Price services numerous public education institutions, public entities and municipalities, not-for-profits, Fortune 500 corporations, closely-held and family businesses, and individual clients. Among our public-sector clients are three (3) counties, two (2) cities, thirteen (13) towns and municipalities, forty-two (42) boards of education, and five (5) higher education institutions.

The members of the Firm's Redevelopment/Land Use practice group are highly-qualified attorneys that are well-versed in the numerous practice areas within our firm and adept at representing our diverse clientele. They also possess a commodity prized among Schenck Price's clients: years of experience trying, not merely litigating or managing, disputes.

Schenck Price's legal acumen and experience are not its only assets, however. The Firm is financially strong and observes the highest standards of ethics. Our attorneys have not been adjudicated liable for professional malpractice. The Firm has never been involved in a bankruptcy or re-organization proceeding. Additionally, Schenck Price abides by all local, state and federal laws and regulations, including, but not limited to, affirmative action and equal opportunity requirements.

We believe that Schenck Price is a shining example of a highly-skilled, conscientious firm capable of meeting and exceeding the Redevelopment Agency's redevelopment needs. It is our competence, resources, experience and scrupulousness that make us the perfect candidate to represent the Redevelopment Agency in its redevelopment matters. We believe that our services can help the Redevelopment Agency continue to write its success story.

2.0 REDEVELOPMENT/LAND USE COUNSEL SERVICES

As discussed in detail below, our Firm has expertise in all aspects of redevelopment/land use law, and we have the resources to meet all required demands and deadlines. We take pride in our efficiency, which translates to cost savings for our clients. While the size of our Firm assures easy client access to our quality legal services and our expertise, we provide the personalized attention to our clients that is characteristic of smaller firms.

2.1 Redevelopment/Land Use Brand

Schenck Price's attorneys have appeared before most of the planning and zoning boards in New Jersey, as well as county planning boards. We help our clients navigate the often-challenging path through permits and approvals. In addition, we handle disputes with municipalities and have regular interaction with state regulatory agencies relating to land use, including the State of New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and the Highlands Council. Our attorneys have the unique experience and perspective of representing many municipalities and planning and zoning boards. This allows us to understand the government's perspective, allowing us to find the most efficient way of handling approvals.

In recent years, a significant amount of our land use work also involves redevelopment applications. Our expertise in redevelopment applications includes short term PILOT programs, long term tax abatements, Garden State Growth Zone Incentives, and Redevelopment Area Bond financing. The relationships we have developed in the redevelopment area extend all over Northern, Central and Southern New Jersey.

2.2 Representative Matters and Clients

Schenck Price has a long history of providing land use and redevelopment services to municipalities and other public entities. We currently provide legal services to the three (3) counties, two (2) cities and thirteen (13) towns and municipalities. We also provide legal services to forty-two (42) boards of education, and five (5) higher education institutions.

We serve as land use and redevelopment counsel to several large corporations. Some of the noteworthy matters that our land use and redevelopment team has handled for Schenck Price's clients and representative matters include:

- Created numerous, successful redevelopment zones in northwestern New Jersey representing municipalities.
- Represented public and privately-owned real estate development companies in brownfield redevelopments in Kearny, New Jersey and Elizabeth, New Jersey.
- Represented an entrepreneur real estate developer in the redevelopment of a former manufacturing facility into a big box retail store in Orangeburg, New York.
- Represented residential real estate operator and a private equity firm in restructuring their condominium projects, including preparation of public offering statements and applications for registration as well as compliance with New Home Warranty and Builder Registration Act and regulations.
- Represented one of the nation's largest telecommunications companies in support of retail and wireless businesses including more than 250 leases for retail stores, wireless antenna facilities and offices; resolving disputes with landlords; due diligence, negotiation and implementation of real estate aspects of mergers and acquisitions; counseling on OSHA; marketing; eminent domain issues; and appealing land use approval decisions.
- Represented defense contractor in sale of surplus facilities including real estate and environmental issue.
- Represented regional manufacturing company in sale/leaseback of factory.
- Represented Morris Habitat for Humanity, Inc. in development of multi-family affordable housing projects in northern New Jersey, including acquisition of sites, use variance and site plan approvals, formation of condominiums and compliance with the Planned Real Estate Development Full Disclosure Act.
- Represented international food products company in acquisition of site and zoning approvals for 150,000 square foot manufacturing, warehouse and office facility.
- Retained to represent the City of Newark in connection with the breach of a redevelopment agreement entered into between the City and two redevelopers. The Firm has drafted a verified complaint for the City and assisted the City with drafting default notices issued to the redevelopers. If the redevelopers fail to cure their defaults or commence suit to prevent termination of the redevelopment agreements, this firm will represent the City in that litigation.

2.3 Team Structure/Key Team Member Experience and Qualifications

James E. Polles, Esq. will be a main contact for all general counsel, land use and redevelopment-related matters. Assisted by Mr. Polles John E. Ursin, Esq., as well as Sean Monaghan, Esq., of the Firm's Land Use and Redevelopment Practice Group.

Mr. Polles has the ability to provide guidance for public entity clients that is grounded in the acknowledgement that property owners are desirous of making the most productive use of their property. In so saying, there will be important policy considerations as to size and scope of redevelopment projects presented to a municipality at any time that will likely impact the goals and objectives of private property owners. It is Mr. Polles's ability to navigate crucial concerns of the community, coupled with the desires of private property owners, that validate the results of his representation of municipalities regarding successful projects that have lead to a "shovel in the ground," whether they be multi-family, mixed-use residential and retail projects in downtown corridors, or industrial warehousing and related facilities. Mr. Polles is experienced with complex business and real estate transactions and frequently appears before zoning and planning boards as well as the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection concerning all types of development, zoning and use issues.

With nearly a decade of local government, redevelopment and land use experience, Mr. Polles has extensive experience in all aspects of the redevelopment process, including but not limited to guiding municipalities and redevelopment agencies throughout the redevelopment process from working with municipal officials to designate an area as in need of redevelopment, through the negotiation of redevelopment and financial agreements, developer's agreements, dispositions of municipal property by way of purchase and sale agreements, and negotiating easements, parking agreements and related access agreements. Mr. Polles previously served as redevelopment counsel for multiple municipalities and redevelopment agencies, including as Redevelopment Counsel to the Woodbridge Redevelopment Agency, as well as municipal attorney, and planning and zoning board attorney. Mr. Polles currently serves as the Zoning Board of Adjustment Attorney for the Borough of Florham Park.

Mr. Ursin has extensive experience in a wide range of legal specialties. This experience and background have allowed him to provide valuable and efficient representation as general counsel to corporations, small business, local government entities, non-profit organizations, and family offices. Mr. Ursin counsels municipalities, school boards, and other public entities and has extensive experience with administrative, governance, and legislative aspects of government, including the Open Public Meetings Act and Open Public Records Act. He advises clients on redevelopment, Council on Affordable Housing and water and sewer utility issues.

Mr. Monaghan has more than thirty (30) years of experience in real estate, environmental and business law. He started his practice as a real estate lawyer and after working on significant real estate transactions of all sorts, developed a specialty in environmentally impacted real estate and business transactions. His practice also includes counseling clients with regard to regulatory compliance before state and federal agencies, including the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs, the United States Environmental Protection Agency and the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection.

See Appendix A for biographies/resumes of the team members.

2.4 Understanding and Meeting the Redevelopment Agency's Needs

Redevelopment and land use can be arduous and time-consuming. Schenck Price's particular expertise in this area of the law allows us to offer our clients prompt, reliable and efficient service and advice. We take pride in our efficiency, which translates to cost savings for our clients. Our goal is to provide easy client access and the personalized attention necessary to effectively and efficiently respond to the client's needs.

It is clear that the Redevelopment Agency has a sophisticated vision for redevelopment in Jersey City, while working in tandem with City Officials and other, required stakeholders. Schenck Price's breadth and depth of redevelopment, land use and general counsel services can act as a compliment to those services already available to the Redevelopment Agency, while also able to provide crucial insight and clear communication to the Redevelopment Agency with regard to the status and progress of any representative matters. We are confident that we can work with the Redevelopment Agency to articulate its goals, so that there is clear communication with redevelopers and that negotiation of redevelopment and related agreements are as fruitful as possible. Schenck Price's redevelopment and land use team has effectively represented the interests of public entities throughout the State of New Jersey, and we are confident that we can do the same for the Redevelopment Agency.

Schenck Price has the ability and resources (which includes more than eighty (80) attorneys and its paralegal staff) to handle all necessary deadlines, even the most complex of issues. The firm has handled extremely complicated land use and redevelopment matters. The Firm is particularly adept at properly managing all of its projects.

3.0 RELATED REQUIREMENTS

Overview

John E. Ursin is a rare corporate attorney, who has expertise in a wide range of legal specialties, including extensive first chair litigation experience. He provides value added, business focused and efficient representation as general counsel to corporations, small business, local government entities and non-profit organizations, including health care and senior living entities, as well as family offices.

John's transactional practice includes substantial commercial real estate, development, middle market mergers and acquisitions, and financing. He has represented some of the largest employers in Northwest New Jersey and has provided land use/redevelopment and financing guidance on some of the largest projects in the area and to client's interests regionally and nationally.

John leads a deal team that handles a wide range of mergers and acquisitions and financings, including private equity, peer-to-peer and succession transactions. These transactions range from local sole proprietors to significant corporate assets in New Jersey and nationally. In recent years alone, John has handled transactions totaling hundreds of millions of dollars.

It is unusual for an attorney with John's corporate experience and practice to also have experience in litigated matters. Yet John has been first chair on litigation representing individuals, companies and public entities in cases that involve premises liability, employment practices, director & officer issues, property issues, bidding and contractual disputes, and education issues. He has tried cases in these areas to verdicts, both in jury and bench trials. He continues to have an active insurance litigation practice, which includes defense and coverage. John represents local and regional banks and other financial institutions in litigation, foreclosure, commercial restructuring and workouts.

This diverse practice allows John to counsel businesses with a unique depth of confidence and conviction. Few attorneys who represent businesses can counsel their clients on employment, property, insurance and financing issues based upon their own litigation and trial experience. This experience also allows John to deeply understand risk management issues in transactions that relate to operational or litigation issues. He also has the advantage of a background in biochemistry, which allows him to be particularly adept at counseling companies in scientific and technology fields.

John is a member of the Firm's Corporate Practice, Insurance Defense, and Banking and Finance Practice Groups. He chairs Schenck Price's Government Law Practice Group, and the Firm's Land Use and Redevelopment Practice Group.

John counsels municipalities, school boards and other public entities and has extensive experience with administrative, governance and legislative aspects of government, including OPMA, OPRA and elections. He advises clients on redevelopment, highlands issues, plan conformance, COAH and water and sewer utilities. He is also involved with contractual disputes, union negotiations, employee discipline, civil service and PERC issues.

John's clients include multiple family offices, private equity entities, real estate developers, health care and senior living facilities, manufacturers, material suppliers, sports-related businesses, insurance companies, banks and government entities.

John is a member of Schenck Price's Management Committee.
